The image shows a single page from an old Arabic manuscript. The paper is heavily stained, discolored, and shows signs of significant water damage, particularly along the left and bottom edges. The text is written in a dark ink using a cursive script, characteristic of Maghrebi or similar Arabic calligraphy. The text is arranged in several lines, but much of it is obscured by the staining and the texture of the paper. The page is framed by a dark, irregular border, possibly from the binding or the edge of the scan.

Handwritten text in a script, likely Indic, on aged paper. The text is arranged in approximately 15 horizontal lines. The script is dark and appears to be a form of Devanagari or a related Indic script. The paper is heavily discolored and stained, particularly with large brown and black spots, suggesting significant age and possible water damage or mold. The text is mostly legible but obscured by these stains.
